

Episode 10: Himalayas, Here We Come!

BRIEF SYNOPSIS

The Cast continues their journey across Asia. They discover that the Sh'Kryth Kage is also on the train, looking for them, and barely manage to evade his agents. Sabrina tags along, as she is supposed to hook up with a contact to get her to her Control in Japan. During the trip, Klaus and Matthew find out Anita's secret, but are sympathetic to her plight and promise to keep it. Nyarlathotep goads Anita into getting drunk and hitting on Matthew, who while he is attracted to Anita, is a bit wiggled out by the whole thing.

QUOTES AND GREAT MOMENTS

Matthew pays the porter to have breakfast set up in his and Anita's cabin when they board. Anita is delighted (although somewhat dense about who did it) and encourages Matthew to slice up the ham with his sword.

A few days into the trip, Matthew fills the cabin with roses and sets up a romantic candlelight dinner for him and Anita. Anita tells him that while she's flattered and cares a lot about him, that he deserves someone better than her. Ebonor listens in on their conversation and informs her that she is going to have sex with Matthew whether she wants to or not. Anita has a few drinks and comes onto Matthew, but he can sense something is off and does not accept her advances.

Anita: "There are lots of roses in here..."

Matthew: "Yes."

Anita: "You must really like flowers..."

Matthew: "Well, I was hoping that you like them."

Anita: "I'm not a nice person."

Anita: "So I may end up having sex with you tonight, but don't say I didn't warn you in advance, okay?"

Matthew: "Um...ok..."

Klaus teaches John German.

Anita has a nightmare about Soul Eaters and Nectanebus and wakes up wounded. Klaus, hearing Anita's screams, goes to see if everything's okay, and notices Anita's tattoo. He later sneaks into her and Matthew's cabin to research the symbol in her Necronomicon. Anita and Matthew catch him, and Anita and Klaus have a long talk about what happened to her. Klaus tells her that while he doesn't agree with the choice she made, he will not tell John or Katherine.

Anita, Klaus, and Matthew pay their way into the kitchen, and Anita makes everyone funnel cakes and alcoholic Shirley Temples. Anita and Matthew tie the cherry stems in knots with their tongues.

Matthew: "Hey, if anyone understands family issues, it's me. You've seen my uncle."

Anita: "You've never met my stepmother. We've never gotten along very well. The whole raising the dead thing really bugs her for some reason."

Klaus: "twitches" "Could we not discuss families, please?"

Anita: "I always wanted a child of my own, but both of the men I might have had children with are gone, so now I raise other people's kids. And you can see what a bang-up job I've done with that."

Klaus: "What happened with William is not your fault, Anita."

Matthew: "Katherine turned out pretty well."

Anita (grins): "Yeah. She's something, isn't she? My best work."

Anita: "It was Leviathan in the guise of Regis Philbin."

Matthew: "I knew there was something I didn't like about him."

John: "In your book, is there a spell that-?"

Klaus: "No, John. No on so many levels!"
